
If I depend on another person emotionally,
what happens if the person can't be there?
I've taught myself to be emotionally independent.
Isolation is my solace.
If I fall of the grid for days, ignoring messages,
I'm off in my own world mending myself.

Consuming your work makes me unusually calm, happy and weird. You should be called Morphine

I adore this comic. It's insightful and well done. The art is rich. It has bright colors and evocative expressions.
